"Albuquerque is getting a bad record abroad for mysterious fires," remarked one of the fire adjusters yesterday aftermoon, "and some one should be held responsible for setting a premium on rascality and dishonesty. The good citizens of Albuquerque," continued the gentleman, "ought to demand a thorough investigation of the recent fires, for there is no doubt in the world that a vigorous investigation would disclose some very interesting reading."

When it was suggested that the agents should be more careful in giving insurance, the adjuster emphatically stated that, in more ways than one, the agents are to be blamed, as they seldom investigate how much insurance this and that person carries and only seem anxious, without examining into all details, to secure the insurance.

Bome of the local agents, so it is understood, are hicking because of the manner in which adjustments of losses are made in certain companies, through local sources, thus rendering other adjustments very hard to be met between the companies and the insured on satisfactory terms.

to the ends which we have in view; which are that we do not incur one dollar of expense beyond our income. You will observe all these matters and regulate the affairs of the city so as to conform with the law in every respect, not calling into question what former administrations have done, for we are starting on an entirely new basis. We must do the best that we possibly can under the circumstances. Let it be our pleasure, however, as well as our sworn duty, to observe the law and to make this an administration of econemy, justice and fairness.

In conclusion, gentlemen, I hope that you will assist me in carrying out parliamentary rules and in observing the atrictest decorum, so that we may be a dignified body and enjoy the respect of the whole community. Not expecting, however, that we shall always be able to please all the people, let our aim be to do the greatest good for the largest number, so that when our time shall have expired the imprecations which may follow us, shall be very few as compared with the benedictions.

AT LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The Easter celebration of the Evangel-The Kaster celebration of the Evangelical Lutheran St. Paul's congregation was splendid in every regard. The foresoon was distinguished by the confirmation of the two first Lutheran extechumens at Albuquerque, ida Herringer and Luebbo Albers. After an examination, very well taken, the two young Christians confessed their creed and were confirmed under the prayers of the congregation. The pastor addressed his pupils, speaking from St. John 2:10, and the whole celebration reached its culmination in the administration of both macraments, baptism and the Lord's Supper. Thus it was a very elevating feast for both the minister and the people who diled the church. In the evening, the Sunday school celebrated their Kaster. Again a large crowd appeared, to wonder at the very tasteful decoration of the church, which was chiefly a merit of Miss Albers' young people, and to be rejoiced by the declamations and songs of the children, both nicely and correctly rendered, especially little Myrtie Faber's song and Alice Schreiber's recitation. All were surprised by the nice, tasteful donations which the children received, consisting of Kaster eggs and cards, and all were satisfied. AT IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

of all the ceremonies of the Catholic church, none are so impressive as those of Holy Week, or the week immediately preceding Kaster. The principal events commemorated during this week are: Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem, on Palm Bunday, the institution of the Blessed Sacrament on Holy Thursday; His crucifixion and death on Good Friday; and His glerious resurrection on Kaster Sunday. All these ceremonies were solemnly celebrated at this church. The altars were tastefully and appropriately decorated for each of the above occasions. Much credit is due the indies of the Altar society for the abundant supply of potted plants and beautiful cut flowers which they so generously donated. Particular mention should be made of the decorations on Kaster Sunday, which were elaborate. Music during Holy Week, for the most part was furnished by the St.

What tended to make the services more impressive and attractive was the presence of thirty alter boys robed in cassock A Visit to the Districts Adjacent and lace surplice.

A series of question brought out the statements of the Old Testament regarding the certainty of the resurrection. Next the story of the resurrection was read responsively by the superintendent and school. Then, in reply to questions asked, an account was given of

In conclusion, an object lesson presented the truth that the space between death and eternal life can only be bridged by the promises of our Lord Jesus Christ and the fact of his resurrection. sented the truth that the space between death and eternal life can only be bridged by the promises of our Lord Jesus Christ and the fact of his resurred too. This was done by means of large, white blocks, each of which contained a single golden letter, representing the first letter of a promise. These blocks were brought to the superintendent by different boys of the school, who with the block gave a promise, and then the superintendent placed it on the pier of either death or life. Is this way a complete arch was formed, the letters on the blocks forming the word, "Victory." On the keystone of this arch was placed a golden crown, representing the crown of life.

As the pastor, in a few well chosen words, drew attention to the eternal truths these symbols were intended to convey to the minds of the children, it was strictly in evidence that the scane before them was making a lasting impression on their young minds.

It was indeed a beautiful picture as the pure white arch with its golden letters and crown towered up from among the paims and flowers, showing through it is opening the cross of flowers in all its beauty.

The music by the school was most happily selected to enforce the truths given, and was entered into very heartily, the church choir giving their aid in those, and also rendered the following:
